SHAW AND BRYAN

CHIEF SPEAKERS AT COMMERCIAL CONGRESS.

MERCHANT MARINE NEEDED

SHAW DECLARES MERCHANTS NEED ENCOURAGEMENT.

BRYAN DRAWS BIG CROWD

Nebraskan Makes Plea to Have Next Congress Held at Lincoln—Disagrees With Root on South American Trade—Presents Resolutions.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 22.—Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, and W. J. Bryan secured the lion's share of attention here today among a long list of speakers at the three sessions of the Transmississippi Commercial congress. All spoke on subjects relating more or less directly to the increasing commercial business of the country.

Mr. Bryan was appointed to head a committee of ex-presidents of the congress to escort Secretary Shaw to the platform, and when these two distinguished public men led the way to the rostrum, there was great applause.

Secretary Shaw, who spoke particularly for a wide foreign market for American goods, made this declaration:

Merchants Need Encouragement.

"If this country ever develops international merchants it will accomplish it by granting them encouragement not alone by dredging harbors and deepening channels, but by insuring them a merchant marine in which to carry, under the most favorable terms, the products of our farms, our mines, our forests and our factories."

"Secretary Root has gone a step further than I propose to go in favor of a merchant marine. He commits himself to the ship subsidy idea. I do not say that I am in favor of a ship subsidy, but I will say that I am in favor of anything that will secure a merchant marine for the United States."

Mr. Bryan, whose subject principally concerned the commercial interests of the Mississippi valley region, was the sole speaker at the evening session. The crowd that greeted Mr. Bryan was the largest of the congress, numbering 6,000 persons. He was introduced by David R. Francis, president of the congress, and was given an unusual ovation. Mr. Bryan said he felt very friendly toward the commercial congress because it was the only body of which he was ever president. He made a strong plea in opening to have the next annual congress held in his town, Lincoln.

Bryan Presents Resolution.

Mr. Bryan presented the following resolution, which he asked be considered by the resolution committee tomorrow:

"Resolved, That this congress heartily indorses the resolution unanimously adopted by the Interparliamentary union at its London session last July, in favor of submission of all international questions to an impartial court or commission for investigation before any declaration of war or commencement of hostilities."

He pleaded earnestly for the adoption of the resolution, hoping, he said, that the congress would thus place itself on record as favoring peace.

Mr. Bryan congratulated the commercial congress for having as their guests two members of the president's cabinet—Secretary Root and Secretary Shaw—"the two foremost members of the president's official family," he said.

Didn't Agree With Root.

Speaking of the South American trade expansion possibilities as set forth by Secretary Root, he said he did not agree with Mr. Root as to the methods suggested. He did not, he said, believe in subsidies.

Mr. Bryan said he had heard Secretary Shaw speak at the afternoon session also, on the question of trade expansion. He said that Mr. Shaw had presented the situation in a pleasing manner, but took occasion to assert that many questions which are not logical must be presented in a pleasing manner to cover up their lack of logic.

Mr. Bryan then read a second resolution affecting trusts, which he wished might be adopted by the commercial congress at its business session tomorrow.

Trust Resolutions.

This resolution, in which Mr. Bryan covered in a general way his hopes regarding trust legislation, follows:

"Resolved, That this congress is unalterably opposed to private monopolies and believing them indefensible and intolerable, favors the enforcement of existing laws and the enactment of such new laws as may be necessary to protect industry from the menace offered by the trusts."

Mr. Bryan said he was glad that at last all people finally had come to be opposed to the giving and receiving of rebates. He spoke of the recent conviction of the sugar trust for receiving rebates, and attacked the Standard Oil company, which, he declared, had built up much of its business by operating in rebates. But legislation was needed, he said, not only to prevent railways from granting rebates, but those other great concerns from watering their stock.

M[illegible] Subjects Discussed.

[illegible] of the subjects upon which addresses [illegible] were made at [illegible]

velopment of mines and mining, the needs of the live stock interests of the southwest, the necessity of increased facilities at the Pacific coast ship yards, irrigation, public drainage as it relates to the reclamation service, our waning forest resources and imaginary evils and ills in Colorado produced by political imagination.

Among those who took part in the proceedings beside the speakers already noted, were George J. Kindel of Denver, who enlivened the morning session by [illegible] introducing a resolution which was referred, calling for the resignation from membership of the interstate commerce commission of Judson C. Clements.

Other speakers included V. C. Alderson, president of the Colorado School of Mines.

Resolutions Committee Busy.

The committee on resolutions, at a meeting tonight, further considered the ship subsidy resolution. The committee decided to recommend to the congress a resolution practically supporting Secretary Root's ship subsidy suggestions, that the United States may have an adequate merchant marine.

The resolution will suggest that the government subsidize three mail steamship lines between the United States and South America. A resolution submitted by President Francis declaring that the congress is unalterably opposed to the acquisition of any more territory in the western hemisphere by any European nation and upholding the Monroe doctrine, will be favorably reported to the convention. Among other resolutions which the committee will recommend are the following:

"To build a deep waterway from the great lakes to the gulf.

To give statehood to New Mexico.

For the government to establish a department of mines and mining.

The committee will finish its consideration of the resolutions tomorrow, after which it will report to the congress.

EXPLOSION MAY PROVE FATAL

Prospector Hurled One Hundred Feet When Giant Powder Lets Go. Partner Carries Body a Mile.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—James Shields, a prospector working in the hills near St. Peter's Dome on the Short Line road, was seriously, if not fatally injured by the explosion of giant powder, this morning.

Shields and partner, John Wood, are driving a tunnel on a promising lead, and had left powder thawing at a wood fire outside. Shields had reached the tunnel mouth with a wheelbarrow load of waste rock, when the powder exploded. He was found by his partner, who ran from the tunnel on hearing the report, lying in bushes, 100 feet away, unconscious and covered with blood. Wood lifted the lifeless body to his shoulders, and struggling over rocks and fallen timber, finally reached the Short Line tracks, nearly a mile distant. The midday passenger train was flagged and the injured man brought to this city in the baggage car.

At the Sisters' hospital tonight, Shields is lying in a critical condition. Internal injuries are feared, and the sight of one eye is probably gone.

A. F. OF L. HONORS MISS WILSON

Presents Her With Gold Watch for Taking Stump for Father, Congressman-elect W. B. Wilson.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—Because she went on the stump in behalf of her trade unionist father, who was elected to congress from a Pennsylvania district, Miss Agnes Wilson was called before the convention of the American Federation of Labor convention this morning and presented with a solid gold diamond-studded watch and [illegible] huge bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Miss Wilson is the daughter of Congressman-elect William B. Wilson. Frank K. Foster of Boston made the presentation. A resolution offered by the Structural Iron Workers asking the federation to frame a bill providing for a revision of the tariff schedules on steel and iron products started a discussion for a time which threatened to drag the federation into politics. It was contended that the selling of the steel products in foreign countries cheaper than here is detrimental to not only the workingmen, but the country at large.

The resolution was voted down.

The convention may finish its labors tomorrow.

PANAMA'S CREW IS MISSING

Steamer Found Beached on Mineral Reef Point.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 22.—With her roddy gone, her upper works washed away and her crew missing, the steamer Panama of the Davidson fleet was found beached today on Mineral Reef Point, fourteen miles west of Ontonagon. The wreck lies on an uninhabited stretch of [illegible] River, many miles away. The Panama's tow barge was cast away yesterday when the two vessels were laboring in the big storm that swept the lakes. More fortunate than the steamer, the barge kept afloat until today, when she was sighted near Ontonagon and towed safely into port. The Panama is said to be damaged to such an extent that it will be impossible to float her again.

13 ARE DROWNED

DISASTROUS COLLISION OF OCEAN STEAMERS.

VESSELS ARE BADLY DAMAGED

VICTIMS ARE STEERAGE PASSENGERS AND SAILORS.

PANIC ON BOARD EACH SHIP

Kaiser William der Grosse and Orinoco Come Together in English Channel—Responsibility of Accident Not Yet Fixed. Vessels Return to Port.

CHERBOURG, Nov. 22.—Two big liners, the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and the Orinoco, collided in the English channel last night at 9 o'clock. As a result 13 steerage passengers and sailors were killed, each vessel was seriously damaged and the two steamers have returned to the port for repairs.

The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse belongs to the North German Lloyd Steamship company. She carried 258 first-class passengers, 389 in the second cabin, and 697 in the steerage. She left Southampton and Cherbourg yesterday for New York. The Orinoco, which belongs to the British Royal Mail Steamship company, had cleared from Southampton for West Indian ports and New York. The passengers of the German vessel will be transshipped and leave France Saturday.

Panic on Board.

The shock of the collision was terrific and there was at once panic on board each ship. Order, however, was quickly restored, but not before a small boat lowered from the Orinoco had been swamped by the efforts of the fear-stricken passengers to crowd into it.

Those who lost their lives were either crushed by the grinding timbers or thrown overboard and drowned. A number of small boats put out from Cherbourg and rescued some sailors and passengers who were struggling in the waves.

The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse with her passengers waiting trans-shipment to the American liner St. Paul and the French liner La Lorraine on Saturday, is lying in the roadstead here. Her starboard quarter shows a rent thirty feet long and fifteen feet high. Beside having her stem broken the Orinoco lost her anchors and forward gear.

Steerage Passengers Suffer.

The fatalities on the Kaiser der Grosse were among the steerage passengers in her bow, four being killed outright. These were George Muhlbier and Samuel Croissant, of Worms; Michael Zeimbelmann, of Forbach, and Ann Koucelik, of Cecelowiz, Bohemia. A girl named Stevler was disemboweled and died in a hospital. Seven persons were injured aboard the German ship. There was much confusion on the Orinoco. Women became frenzied with fear and could not be restrained until the boats, which were being lowered at the captain's orders, were properly launched. Some jumped overboard and one boat was swamped. Small boats came to the rescue and with the exception of three seamen, everybody was picked up.

The responsibility of the accident has not yet been fixed, but it is charged that the Kaiser Wilhelm did not respond to signals from the English steamer.

INVESTIGATION IS CLOSED

Commission Shifts From Minneapolis to Duluth.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—The Minneapolis hearings, conducted by the interstate commerce commission for the purpose of investigating the methods used in the grain business of the northwest, and the relation of railroads and grain companies, came to an abrupt end at 5 p.m. when the attorney for the commission stating that he had examined all the witnesses he desired. The commission will meet tomorrow in Duluth.

This afternoon the witnesses discussed the farmers representation on the chamber of commerce floor.

F. D. Gavan gave statements which show it is the lack of railroad facilities which are retarding the movement of the crop, and not limited accommodation for terminal storage. He said that at the head of the lake the terminal storage capacity is 24,550,000 bushels. These elevators now have on hand but 8,577,000 bushels. At Minneapolis the terminal capacity is 28,000,000 bushels. There is on hand but 5,[illegible],000 bushels.

Three Men Are Dead and Others Are Missing.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 22.—Three men are dead as a result of the storm which raged yesterday in Pecos valley; others are missing, and friends fear for their safety. Edward Fanser and Aurelio Santiago, cattle rustlers, died from exposure, their bodies being recovered today. A. M. Freeman of Carlsbad, a former judge of the federal court, is reported as one of the persons missing since the storm.

Kazan Peasantry Sell Daughters Into Slavery to Buy Food.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 22.—Reports from the famine districts of Russia show that the distress is steadily growing acute. The peasantry in the government of Kazan have been driven to desperation and are selling their daughters into slavery to Mohammedans of the Caucasus. Girls from 12 to 17 years of age have been sold for $30 to $75.

A form of fever known as "hunger fever" is epidemic.

ANNUAL BANQUET

GIVEN BY NEW YORK CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

THREE ADDRESSES OF NOTE

AMBASSADORS OF TWO WORLD POWERS TO U. S. PRESENT.

ROOSEVELT SENDS REGRETS

Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, Retiring British Ambassador, Leaves With Hearty Good Will Toward America — Expresses Regrets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The ambassadors of two world powers to the United States spoke at the annual banquet of the New York chamber of commerce, at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight. They were Baron Speck Von Sternberg of Germany and Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, representing the British government. Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia also spoke.

Regrets Leaving America.

Ambassador Durand said:

"This being the last time I shall address this chamber or any great American audience as British ambassador, you will perhaps forgive me if for a moment I go beyond the terms of my toast. I am about to retire from the diplomatic service. For some reasons I greatly regret doing so, and especially do I regret leaving America. From the day I entered the service it was my wish to become ambassador at Washington. I regarded this embassy as the most desirable post in the service. I can say with all truth that after three years here, that feeling has increased. I ask you to believe that in spite of all shortcomings on my part, and they doubtless have been many, no Englishman ever came to this country or left it with heartier good-will toward America than I."

Letter From Roosevelt.

When President Morris K. Jesup of the chamber, proposed the health of President Roosevelt, he read a letter from the executive expressing regret that he could not be present. A message of regret from Commander Peary was also read. Toasts to the health of King Edward of England, Emperor William of Germany and President Fallieres of France were drunk. The first toast of the evening was responded to by Baron Von Sternberg, the German ambassador, who said:

"We are, as you are, a hardworking people. We believe in the dignity of labor. No man is disgraced in Germany by engaging in trade. We have pride in our technical schools, in our manufactures, in our laboratories, in our scientific investigations—in all of our contributions to the betterment of mankind. All we ask is a fair field and no favors. We stand for an open door everywhere. We ask no special privileges; our position is, 'Let the best man win.'

Closer Commercial Relations.

"Are we seeking an outlet for our energies? Yes, wherever and whenever it may be within the legitimate and proper limits of commercial rivalry, and nowhere else. If we shall bring to the contest better and cheaper goods, more care in manufacture and better effort in the distribution, we expect the fair fruitage of our planting, but no more. Would you deny us this? I know you better than to suspect it. We are inviting you to closer commercial relations.

"You have just sent a commission of experts to Germany to make a study of the tariff situation in Germany, and to thoroughly acquaint the Germans with the American situation. May this step bring great advantages to the commercial and industrial life in both our countries. Germany has expressed her hearty gratitude over this step, in which she notices the sincere efforts of the Washington administration to bring about an improvement of our commercial relations. Not only shall we endeavor to give freely of the information they seek, but we shall try to understand from them more clearly the point of view of the people whose interests they represent, thus arriving at a mutually satisfactory and helpful agreement. The appointment of this commission emphasizes to my mind a trait which is possessed in a striking degree by President Roosevelt and Emperor William—an abiding desire for the truth, a preference to understand your neighbor rather than to misunderstand him.

"Let us hope that the great blessings which George Washington and Frederick the Great brought to their countries by a wise and far-sighted treaty, and which have been so strengthened by the characters and policies of Theodore Roosevelt and William the Second, may be continued and renewed with and through the years."

Decadence of the Senate.

The toast by Senator Elkins of West Virginia followed.

Senator Elkins said:

"In some quarters and among those not well informed it seems fashionable to talk about the decadence of the senate. The decadence of the senate can only follow the decadence of the people and would mark a backward movement in the social condition, morals, intelligence and integrity of the people. So long as the people grow in virtue and in intelligence, live in an advancing civil[illegible] [illegible] places, but instead an ever-increasing virtue and a larger sense of duty in our public servants. We are apt to think and say that the present is not equal to the past in all good things—in patriotism, in ability and purity, and that our greatest men belong to the past, but when the time comes, the present always finds some one to take the place of the greatest that has fallen. The hour produces the men. The debate on railway rate [illegible] great men and great senators. This debate will stand as one of the ablest ever had in the senate.

"In times of excitement and aroused passions, in peace and in war, next to the supreme court, the senate is the sure refuge and the safe reliance of the people in preserving their liberties and in all crises proving the greatest guardian of the fortunes of the republic."

Senator C. M. Depew, who for months had not attended any public gathering, was present.

COUNT'S CREDITORS MANY

Among Them Are Jewelers With Bills Representing Thousands.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The attorneys for the creditors of Count Boni de Castellane completed their arguments before the tribunal office instance this afternoon, and the case was adjourned to November 28, when Maitre Cuppi will reply. Among the creditors represented today was an antiquarian, who claimed $37,000 for articles which he said the count and countess had contracted to pay for at the expiration of the trusteeship in 1909.

Another bill for jewels valued at $24,000, purchased from Mlle. Vera Nimidoff of Odessa, revealed an interesting tale, according to which Mlle. Nimidoff's brother returned from the Russo-Japanese war compromised in the revolutionary movement, and was condemned to death and executed, entailing the ruin of the family. Mlle. Nimidoff then came to Paris, where she sold the jewels to Count Boni through the intermediary of a jeweler.

CHAMBERLAIN ISSUES REPORT

Commissioner of Navigation Urges the Enactment of Merchant Marine Commission Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The annual report of Commissioner of Navigation Chamberlain states that on July 30 last the documented merchant vessels of the United States numbered 25,000 of 6,674,899 gross tons.

The report urges the enactment of the merchant marine commission bill, which has passed the senate, including the provision for American mail lines to South America, and favors the bill to abolish the discrimination against coasting vessels in pilotage charges in the states from Virginia to Texas. The summary of the report says:

"The year's construction was 1,221 vessels of 419,745 gross tons. Only three ocean steamers were built. The tonnage built during the current fiscal year up to November 19 aggregates 293,000. During the year only 12 per cent of the exports and imports of the United States were carried in American vessels."

The report says that of 126,754 men shipped, 37,675 were native, 23,456 naturalized Americans, and the remainder alien.

YOUNG GILLETTE'S OWN STORY

Retold to Jury Which Is Trying Him for Murder of His Sweetheart.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Chester Gillette's own story of how his sweetheart came to her death in the waters of Big Moose lake, July 11, as related by him to Undersheriff Kluck, who arrested him at Arrowhead the Saturday morning following, was retold today to the jury which is trying the young man on the charge of murder.

It was brought out that Gillette knew that the girl had been in a delicate condition since May. He said he and she had been intimate for a year.

"When the boat upset, accidentally, as you say, and she was floundering helplessly in the water, why did you not go to her assistance?" Undersheriff Kluck swore today he asked his prisoner.

"Because," the young man replied, "I was afraid that she might struggle so that we would both go down."

District Attorney Ward followed up this lead by presenting in evidence the suit case, the camera and tripod, the tennis racquet and other articles, which are supposed to have been rescued from the water by the young man after the boat upset.

"Gillette told me," continued the witness, "that he shouted to the girl to hold onto the stern of the boat and he would try to get her ashore. He said he did not get near her for he was holding onto the boat."

Kluck's story was the only testimony of interest presented during the afternoon session. He declared that since his arrest Gillette had given three explanations as to how the boat was overturned. When asked if he or the girl was to blame for the alleged accident, he replied, according to the witness: "I suppose I am to blame for it."

CONGRESS CAN INVESTIGATE

Secretary Taft Says He Has Learned This From Experience.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Secretary Taft said today that he had not considered any action by congress in relation to the discharge of the negro troops who "shot up" Brownsville, Texas. "But there is one thing that I have learned that congress can do," he said, laughingly. "It can investigate. I know that from experience, for congress has investigated everything I have [illegible]"

SURPRISE SPRUNG

CARUSO ASKED TO IDENTIFY CHORUS GIRL.

APPEARS SUDDENLY IN DOOR

GRAHAM WOMAN MAY GO ON STAND TODAY.

HAS KEPT OUT OF SIGHT

All Efforts to Locate Woman Who Preferred Charges Have Been Fruitless—Dr. Densiger and Conreid Speak in Defendant's Behalf.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Hannah Graham, the woman who caused the arrest of Enrico Caruso on a charge of annoying and mistreating her in the monkey house in Central park, may appear in police court tomorrow to press the charge against him. Just before court adjourned tonight, at the end of the second day's hearing of the charge against the singer, Deputy Police Commissioner Mathot, who is conducting the prosecution, said that he had little more evidence to offer. There was only one witness for the prosecution yet to be heard, he said, and when that witness appeared he would require less than ten minutes to complete his case.

One More Witness.

Despite the efforts of the police it had been found impossible to present the witness today, but he felt safe in assuring the court that the person to whom he referred would be in court tomorrow. A report that the witness referred to was the missing Hannah Graham spread.

Hannah Graham dropped out of sight when she left the police station five minutes after she had preferred the charge against Caruso last Friday afternoon, and witnesses for the prosecution testified that the utmost endeavors had been made to find her but without avail. Should she appear, she would furnish a sensation far greater than any which have marked the two days' hearing in the Yorkville police court.

Today was not without sensations. When court adjourned last night, Caruso was on the stand, and his examination was resumed when the case was taken up today. Mr. Mathot questioned the defendant closely concerning the four years when he has appeared in this country under the direction of Heinrich Conreid. Caruso acknowledged that he was in New York in 1904, and that on February 1 of that year he sang in "Parsifal," at the Metropolitan house.

Sensation Is Sprung.

It was at this point that the real sensation of the day came. The wide doors directly behind the magistrate's bench swung open and a woman in white and with a white veil drawn closely over her face, stepped into the room.

"Caruso, look upon this woman," said the deputy police commissioner, as the woman raised the veil and revealed her features. "Did you ever see the woman before?"

The defendant moved uneasily, hesitated, and then replied:

"No, I have never seen her."

"Did you not, on the afternoon of February 1, 1904, during the second act of "Parsifal," stand behind this woman in the Metropolitan Grand Opera house and subject her to exactly the same indignities to which it is charged Hannah Graham was subjected in the Central park monkey house?"

"I did not," replied the witness, "I never saw the woman before, so far as I can remember."

"Is it not true that on that afternoon, not only this woman, but other women, were the victims of much indecent action upon your part?"

Caruso's counsel broke in with a vigorous objection, which was sustained.

It was reported in the court room that the woman in white was a member of the chorus of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Dr. Densiger Testifies.

One of the diverting features of the day was the appearance for the defense of Dr. Adolph Densiger, former American consul at Madrid. Dr. Densiger testified that he was in the monkey house in Central park during Caruso's visit there Friday, and that he observed no improper action on the singer's part. He declared that he had voluntarily come forward to testify in the singer's behalf, because he knew him personally; knew him to be a gentleman, the greatest tenor of this or any other time. Being a benefactor of humanity, he desired to assist Caruso, not for himself alone, but for his great career.

"I volunteered to assist Mr. Caruso in exactly the same way that I volunteered to assist Theodore Roosevelt to become president of the United States," said Dr. Densiger. He swore that from his observations it would have been impossible for Caruso to have acted toward any woman in the monkey house in the manner described by Detective Cain yesterday. He stood within ten feet of Caruso at the time he was in the building.

Heinrich Conreid described Caruso's mannerisms much as did Dr. Densiger.

"To be brief, he is pompous?" asked Mr. Mathot.

"It would be more kind to speak of it as a habit," replied Mr. Conreid.

Several other witnesses testified as to Caruso's [illegible]

BIG GAME TURKEY DAY

COLLEGE AND DENVER UNIVERSITY ON LOCAL FIELD.

All Prospect of Another Game With Mines Has Vanished—Tigers in Good Trim.

The next football game in which Colorado college will figure is that with the Denver university eleven at Washburn field on Thanksgiving day. Manager McClintock of the Tigers received the final answer from the Mines yesterday in the form of a telegram, which stated that the athletic board of the Golden institution was opposed to playing off the tie game next Saturday with the Tigers, and unless the local faculty agree to allow the Colorado college men to play a post-season game the question of supremacy between the Mines and the Tigers will be unsettled for another year.

The only remaining game on the Mines regular schedule is that on Thanksgiving day at Denver with the Colorado university eleven. In this game the Miners are confronted with a peculiar proposition, as Roberts, their best ground-gainer, is pledged not to play against his alma mater, and only agreed to play with the Mines eleven with this stipulation. It is just possible that if Boulder can turn Trinidad loose on the Miners in their crippled state the result may be unfavorable to the Miners. Should this be the case the Miners' title to the state championship will be much clouded, and the college team may be part-sisters in the state honors. Such an outcome would have a tendency to assure a post-season contest between the Tigers and the Miners.

Thursday's game with Denver university at Washburn field will be called later than usual to allow local enthusiasts time to digest their Thanksgiving turkey. It is scheduled for 3 p. m. "Slats" Bertke, a former Wisconsin player, chosen for the all-western team, has been agreed upon for referee, and Percy Poore and Jack Featherwick are talked of for umpire. Tickets for the game will go on sale next Monday at Strong's and at the C. & S. city ticket office. One of the greatest crowds in the history of the Stadium today is anticipated. The college team is practicing daily on the local field, and will in all probability put up the best exhibition of the season.

MAY REINSTATE BERNARD

Local Horseman's Case Up for Settlement December 4.

The case of S. S. Bernard of this city, barred from the turf on the charge of pulling his horse in a race at Denver, and using abusive and "ungentlemanly" language to officials when called into the stand to explain, will come up for settlement before the meeting of the National Trotting association in Chicago on December 4. Z. B. Stebbins, who was judge of the race course at the time of the ruling and toward whom the alleged "ungentlemanly" language was used, is said to be determined to fight the local millionaire at that meeting. Many prominent turfmen, however, are confident Mr. Bernard will be reinstated.

CURTIS' WORTH TO MICHIGAN

Proof That His Loss Caused Michigan's Defeat.

Just how much Michigan was affected by the loss of Captain Curtis in the Pennsylvania game is clearly demonstrated by the result of the Michigan-Vanderbilt game played yesterday at Nashville, Tenn. Vanderbilt beat the Indians by the score of 4 to 0. On November 3 Vanderbilt suffered a defeat at the hands of Michigan, the score being 10 to 4. Michigan, without the aid of Curtis, was defeated by Pennsylvania 11 to 0. Pennsylvania went down before the Indians to the tune of 21 to 6. And now the Indians are defeated by Vanderbilt by a goal from the field. If a follower of football was not aware that Curtis, who was such a tower of strength to Michigan, was out of the Penn-Michigan contest, he would have little faith in deductions from football data.

CHARLES C. POST IS DEAD

Colorado Pioneer and Statesman Passes Away at Denver.

DENVER, Nov. 22.—Former Attorney General Charles C. Post, pioneer and statesman, died early this afternoon at his home, 2307 West Thirtieth avenue, Denver, of kidney trouble.

One of the drafters of the provisional constitution of the territory of Colorado, a judge in the provincial judiciary and a leader in territorial affairs, Charles Post had much to do with moulding the destiny of the commonwealth in its infancy.

He was born in Saline, Mich., 75 years ago, and 20 years later was admitted to the bar in Illinois.

For many years Mr. Post had been prominent in state affairs. He came to Colorado in 1859. He was attorney general from 1901 to 1903, under the Orman administration. From 1876 to 1880 Mr. Post made his home at Georgetown, moving from there to Denver when he was elected attorney general, and has since made his home here. He leaves four children, two sons and two daughters, one daughter being a teacher in the Hawaiian islands.

PHYSICIAN SHOT BY WOMAN

Affair Takes Place on Street and Several Are Hit.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Miss Otilio Schneider, 42 years of age, this afternoon fired five revolver shots at Dr. Frederick Bierhoff, two of which struck the doctor. The shooting took place in the street at Madison avenue and Fifty-ninth street. Dr. Bierhoff's wounds are not especially dangerous. One of the other shots took effect in the arm of Otto Groene, a lawyer, and another struck Paul Sheehan in the back. Neither was seriously injured.

Miss Schneider gave various reasons for the shooting, asserting first that she was revenging herself for alleged professional malpractice, and afterward said that the doctor had stolen all the ideas for French waists which she had designed.

Later Dr. Bierhoff gave out a statement in which he said that Miss Schneider, who was a former patient of his, began to write him threatening letters several years ago, and attacked him on the streets about a year ago. At his instance, Dr. Bierhoff declared, the woman was taken to Bellevue hospital, but later he agreed to her release, with the understanding that she was to return to Germany.

KILLS GIRL WITH SCISSORS

Rejected Suitor Ends Life of Sweetheart—Confesses to Crime.

ADRIAN, Mich., Nov. 22.—Miss Ola Kelly was murdered at her home in Holloway, Mich., tonight. Joseph Eliches, a rejected suitor, is accused of cutting her throat with a pair of scissors and then driving the scissors into her heart.

The discovery of the murder was made by Miss Kelly's mother, who, upon returning home from a neighbor's, stumbled over her daughter's body. The victim's throat had been cut apparently with a pair of scissors which were left sticking in the young woman's heart.

Eliches, when arrested here tonight, confessed the crime, it is said. He had been paying attention to the girl for some time and a few days ago she wrote him that she did not care to receive his attentions any longer.

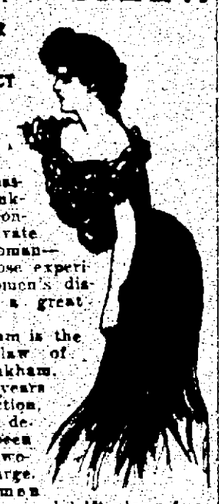

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Fire tonight destroyed the plant of the Whittier, Coburn Oil company and Barber Asphalt company, at Seventh and Hooper streets. The loss is estimated at half a million dollars.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The royal mail steamer Magdalena will leave Southampton November 28 for New York with the mails and passengers of the Orinoco.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 22.—A dispatch received from Astrakhan reported the discovery of a plot to kill Governor General Sokoloff and the arrest of the terrorists implicated.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT

That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years.

Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for many years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation

Women suffering from any form of female ailment are invited to write her at once. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from it is more than probable that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If sick or ill, don't hesitate to get a little of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me."

OPPOSED TO PLAN OF REFORM

Nebraska Bankers Do Not Favor Recently Proposed Plan Regarding Currency.

OMAHA, Nov. 22.—The Nebraska Bankers association today went on record as opposed to the plan of currency reform proposed by the committee of the American Bankers association. The committee on resolutions made its report this afternoon and precipitated a very lively debate, which was participated in by President Forgan, vice president of the First National bank of Chicago, a member of the American Bankers association committee which formulated the plan of reform. James H. Eckels of Chicago, former controller of the currency, spoke before the convention yesterday in advocacy of a plan. The report of the resolutions committee which was adopted follows in part:

That we are opposed to the issue in time of financial peace, like the present, of any bank note currency except that now authorized secured by a deposit of United States bonds.

That we favor legislation by congress authorizing the issue of an emergency circulation which will be taxed so heavily that it could not be issued except in time of great commercial stringency and impending panic, and would be retired when the conditions requiring its issue no longer existed.

JEALOUSY CAUSE OF MURDER

Babb Shoots Boarder Through Crack in Kitchen Door.

PUEBLO, Nov. 22.—A special to the Chieftain from Trinidad says:

Acting Coroner Coney returned today from Earl and related the facts of yesterday's murder at that place. David Babb shot and killed Bennett Berlus through a crack in the kitchen door while Berlus was in a nearby tent. Babb then borrowed a neighbor's horse and was last heard of going toward Folsom, N. M. Up to a late hour tonight Babb had not been captured, although messages have been sent broadcast.

Berlus was a boarder in the Babb household and jealousy is said to have caused the killing.

ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS

NATIONAL GRANGE OFFERS MANY SUGGESTIONS.

Favors Increase of Appropriation for Extension of Agricultural Education.

DENVER, Nov. 22.—The National Grange convention today adopted resolutions presented by the committee on agriculture condemning free seed distribution by the government as being of no benefit, opposing a national fertilizer law, and favoring amendment of the oleomargarine law by striking out the word "knowingly," to the end that convictions may be secured for violation of the law.

On the resolution asking for a national law to protect farmers against the sale of nursery stock not true to name, the committee reported the reference of the matter to the various state granges with a recommendation that they endeavor to secure protective legislation in their respective states.

On a resolution asking congress for an annual appropriation for the extension of agricultural education, the committee reported favorably, and the report was adopted. The present appropriation is only $15,000. The resolution asked that it be $20,000, the amount which Secretary James Wilson estimates as necessary.

Aid is to be rendered along these lines: Agricultural colleges, state departments of agriculture, training courses and training schools for agricultural instructors, to introduce experimentally new features of agricultural education, to increase the efficiency of agricultural education in negro land grant colleges, etc.

The co-operative committee's report was adopted. It recommended co-operative creameries, elevators, savings banks, trust companies, building and loan associations, warehouses, grange fire insurance companies and co-operative marketing of farm products, but without responsibility for their management or obligations.

The committee on finance recommended that $10,000 be appropriated for lecture and extension work and the report was adopted.

A resolution was adopted extending thanks to President Roosevelt for his aid in securing the passage of laws concerning denatured alcohol, pure food, railroad rate regulation and his many other excellent suggestions in the promotion of the agricultural interests of the country.

Thanks were extended to the department of agriculture, the interstate commerce commission, the postmaster general and the general press of the country in promoting the purposes and principles of the National Grange.

The state granges and patrons were asked to defer indorsement of any insurance plan until after the report of the National Grange committee was made, and especially any indorsement of so-called grange insurance companies.

N. J. Bachelder, Aaron Jones and E. B. Norris were appointed members of the legislative committee.

IRON FOR LIGHTNING RODS.

From the London Daily Graphic.

In his report to the home department on the circumstances attending an explosion in the press house and incorporating mills at the factory at Sedgwick, near Kendal, on the result of a thunderstorm, Major Cooper Key, refers to the respective properties of copper and iron as lightning conductors. He points out that in cases of such simple buildings as magazines and other "danger" buildings, iron is preferable to copper, on account of its [illegible] conductivity, which gradually absorbs the energy and dissipates it with far less tendency to dangerous effects, such as surging and side flash.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

Mrs. Mabel S. Walters, of this city, is trying to get a divorce from her husband, Harry F. Walters, on the grounds of bigamy, desertion and non-support. Alimony is being sued for to the extent of $2,000. The plaintiff, who is represented by Murat Masterson, filed her complaint in the county court yesterday, in which she alleges that she was married to Harry Walters, March 18, 1903, in Colorado Springs, and that in June, 1906, the defendant married Elizabeth Snyder in Pueblo. He is said to have deserted the plaintiff about a year ago, and to have contributed nothing to her support since that time.

In Justice W. N. Ruby's court yesterday John Graham and George Selvert were acquitted of the charge of misrepresentation brought against them by C. K. Chezum, in connection with the sale of a livery stable on North Tejon street.

The case of the city of Colorado Springs against the Hydro-Electric company will be set for trial in the district court next Monday.

Attorney J. P. Jackson of Colorado City appeared before the county commissioners yesterday and made argument against the proposed reduction of the school levy for the county. It is expected that the commissioners will make the levy before the end of the present week.

Catarrh of the Stomach

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surface of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. E. S. Workman, Chicago, Ills., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion. Catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn, and bloating after meals.

The presentation was made at a banquet in the Savoy hotel, Denver, at which the employes took part in the ceremony of christening the trophy.

MRS. GARVIN BOUND OVER

To Bigamy Charge, Says She Read of Death of Husband No. 2 Before Taking No. 3.

On a charge of bigamy, Mrs. Anna Garvin was yesterday bound over to the district court by Justice O. H. Dunnington under a bond of $1,000, failing to provide which she will remain in custody until her case comes before the higher court, which will probably be next week.

The complaint was entered against Mrs. Garvin by Mrs. C. B. Spaulding, of this city, the mother of Arthur Garvin, to whom the accused was married, according to her testimony, in June, 1899. The prosecution is the result of an action for divorce brought by the accused against her husband on [illegible] and the action is based on Mrs. Garvin's former marriage to Romeo Briggs, in Butte, Mont., January 2, 1898, from whom it is said she accused has never secured a divorce.

In her defense before the court yesterday, Mrs. Garvin testified that Briggs married her while he was still a minor, and that six months after the marriage his mother came to their home with an officer and took him away. She never saw him again, but heard that he had joined the army for service in the Philippines.

In September, 1898, she saw an account of his death, together with his picture, in a San Francisco paper. Other information received tended to confirm the news of his death, and it was in the full belief that he was dead that she contracted her marriage with Garvin. The only other witness called by the defense was Mrs. Pearl Sutton, a daughter of the accused by her first husband, Harvey Johns.

Attorney Joseph Dye, of Pueblo, appeared for the defense and the prosecution was conducted by the district attorney. After an exhaustive summing up on both sides, Justice Dunnington said that, while he was not prepared to say whether the woman was guilty or not, he thought the evidence warranted him in binding her over to the district court.

ALFONSO HONORS STEINWAYS

King Appoints Pianomakers Official Manufacturers to Spanish Court.

A cable message has just been received by Steinway & Sons informing them that King Alfonso has appointed their firm "Official Manufacturers to the Court of Spain."

This honor comes as a fitting climax to a visit paid to Steinway Hall, London, last spring by Princess Ena, now Queen Victoria of Spain, when she selected for her own use a beautiful Steinway Sheraton Grand Piano.

Besides royal appointments, of which this is the sixteenth, conferred by the reigning houses of the Old World, this firm has received almost every other foreign distinction of value, including the Cross of the Legion of Honor from the French government, the Order of the Red Eagle from the German emperor, and the Order of the Medjidie from the Sultan of Turkey.

Since these honors are an international recognition of the superior merits of an American piano, and of services rendered to music and art by an American house, they are naturally a source of pride to all Americans.

WHEN TO LET GO.

ABOUT the hardest thing on earth for any man to learn is when to let go. There have been so many lamentable instances of men who didn't know when to let go that a mere catalogue of them would fill columns of newspaper space. In fact, there have been few in public life, who did know. Washington knew, and made a precedent which has been of the greatest value ever since, but few public men have had his strength of mind.

Some recent instances have emphasized the result of holding on too long—two cases especially in point being those of the two Senators from New York. If each had retired at the end of his last term, it would have been better for his fame, and better for the state. Mr. Depew had never been recognized as an especially strong man in the Senate, but his colleagues generally liked him, and his reputation was good. He had risen to prominence largely by his treatment of newspaper men. When he was in the office of the New York Central in New York, an assignment to interview him was a "snap." If he did not give the information desired, he always said something that would make a good story, and the reporter was correspondingly grateful. He became "our Chauncey," and his popularity grew. He made no enemies; his way was smooth. He seemed perennially youthful, and to emphasize his youthfulness, he took a new wife a few years ago. It seemed that his days of usefulness might still be many. Then came the insurance investigation, and his reputation and his health were both sadly broken.

Mr. Platt was a much stronger character. After being beaten in 1881, he came again, stronger than ever, and for years was the almost undisputed boss of the greatest state in the Union. Never a real statesman, he was certainly a good politician. Never a strong man physically, he seemed to have unusual endurance, and when, after he was seventy, he also, like Mr. Depew, took a new and comparatively youthful wife he seemed to have renewed his youth. But like Depew, he held on too long. Physically he is a wreck, and it is evident that he has been failing mentally also. The recent unpleasant notoriety incident to his separation from his wife has told upon him. New York was practically unrepresented in the Senate last winter.

In the army, there is an age limit—62—of compulsory retirement. There is no such limit in political life, and many men can perform signal service after they are seventy. Take the case, for instance, of the other Senator Platt, he of Connecticut, who recently died at the age of 78, universally honored and respected, and having performed in his last few years in the Senate the most notable service he had ever rendered to his country. Then there are the two Senators from Alabama, both over eighty, and both still able and worthy representatives of their state. So it is hard to tell when a man is too old to render active service. He must be his own judge—unless his constituents take the matter out of his hands and decide it for him.

We see the same principle exemplified in many other walks of life besides the political. We know of the "dead line" for ministers and teachers, and many a business man has seen younger and more energetic competitors get his business away from him. Probably the doctors and the lawyers have the better of men of most other professions. For all, however, there comes a time when it is better to let go. He is a wise man who knows when that time comes.

THE NEW THEOLOGY.

THERE is always a new theology. Men's ideas do not stand still. Science is modifying people's views as to theology every year, not to say every month or every day. Theology is not taught from the pulpit as it used to be. Any pastor will tell you that the number of doctrinal sermons he preaches now is not a quarter as many as were preached a quarter of a century ago. The demand of the hour is for "practical" sermons, and ministers respond to popular demand like other people. Nobody preaches hell-fire any more—maybe a little dose of it once in awhile would be a good thing, but it isn't popular. The sense of sin seems to be lost.

The Protestant Episcopal Church probably has fewer trials for heresy than any other in this country. It has avoided them of set purpose. It is therefore the more remarkable that the most celebrated heresy trial should be in that church. The Rev. Dr. Crapsey has finally been found guilty of heresy.

Now heresy seems something that belongs to the dark ages. In these days a man believes what he pleases. But so long as a church has a creed, those ministers of the church who teach and preach something diametrically opposed to the creed are guilty of heresy. There is no doubt that Dr. Crapsey has thus taught and preached. If there is one thing taught more strongly than any other in the articles of belief of that church, it is the divinity and the virgin birth of Jesus Christ, and these are the things Dr. Crapsey has denied. He may be a good man and a good preacher; his influence may be good; but as an Episcopal priest bound by ordination vows it is his business to conform to the creed held by his church. If he does not do that, his place is elsewhere.

There are loose notions respecting heresy in these days. To most men heresy is the belief in certain things that churches do not believe in. In a case like that of Dr. Crapsey they think and talk as if the question at issue were whether Dr. Crapsey is justified in his views or not—not whether his views are in accord with the historic creed of his church. People generally will side with Dr. Crapsey or not according as their own individual views do or do not accord with his. But that is manifestly an error. The question at issue was not at all whether Dr. Crapsey, in view of recent progress in scientific thought, was justified in rejecting the historic view of his church in regard to these doctrines, but whether the views he expressed were in accord with that historic doctrine. If they were not, he was plainly guilty of heresy. If those historic doctrines are wrong, let the church correct them; but as long as they are the declared creed of the church, any man who teaches contrary to them belongs not in the church, but outside of it.

It is often said that creeds are outworn and unimportant; they are not. Every man has a creed—a belief that nothing can be known about what he regards as unknowable. Like Matthew Arnold, he may believe in a power not ourselves that makes for righteousness, and if he does, he will try to square his actions with that belief. That is a creed, although to Christians it may seem a small and lame one.

This is a time for the readjustment of creeds. It is a time when Christian ministers, of all men in the world, need to be awake. The church is the greatest conservative force in civilized society. If it loses its hold on the people, anarchy is due. It must retain its hold, and in order to do that, it must have for a creed something that people will really believe and act on. Mere intellectual assent will not do—religion must be something that touches the deep springs of a man's life and influences his every act.

Outside of the institutions immediately concerned, the world in general is very little interested in the question of who shall be the titular football champion of Colorado this fall. Pennants make pretty decorations for the "gym," but they can be forborne if necessary. Whatever happens, the Colorado College team has tied the best other team in the state, and perhaps that will have to be glory enough for this time.

Only one real big football game remains to be played. Next Saturday, weather permitting, Yale and Harvard will have a battle royal. Until last Saturday, Harvard looked a winner, but Yale did so unexpectedly well with Princeton that now the odds are even. Luckily there is no question of championship to be settled.

The Trans-Mississippi Congress amounts to more this year than ever before. There is something doing besides electing officers and fixing the place of the next meeting. Most conventions expend all their energy on those two things, and the other proceedings are merely casual and incidental.

Strange to say, a current magazine article on "The Decadence of Husbands" was not written by a lady whose husband had refused to pay for her new winter hat.

What enterprising publisher will be the first to secure from the President an article on "Porto Rico in an Automobile?"

Press Opinions

NEEDS OF THE SOUTH.

From the Columbia (S. C.) State.

What we most wish to see are 1,000 farmer families, each with about $1,000 capital, move into South Carolina, rent or buy little farms and farm as they have to do in these parts of America and the old world where it is really necessary to work to live. They would assuredly "surprise the natives."

AFTER THE MONEY.

From the New York World.

One of the New York morning papers published what purported to be an interview with Mrs. Russell Sage recently, wherein she is represented as saying that she intended to give away all of the $80,000,000 left by the late Russell Sage to worthy and unobtrusive persons who need the money.

The first train to Lawrence, L. I., carried an even dozen men and women, all worthy and unobtrusive, who anxiously inquired of the depot master the way to the Sage residence. An hour later a dozen gloomy men and women assembled upon the station awaiting the first train for New York. They unanimously agreed that Mrs. Sage had been incorrectly reported, for one and all had been brusquely denied access to the widow with millions at her disposal. They had even been shooed off the grounds by a militant maid who weighed two hundred.

All day long men and women of the shabby-genteel sort in vain made Lawrence the Mecca of their pilgrimage, but someone had blundered. Someone to whom Mrs. Sage had imparted her confidences had repeated them to a reporter, who had printed them in the shape of a chatty interview, wherein Mrs. Sage was made to say that she pined to give away all she possessed, save a few odd thousands to provide for her declining years, to persons whom she herself might ferret out among the teeming millions of indigent throughout the land.

QUOTING HETTY GREEN.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In consideration of remarks attributed to Hetty Green, the fact is worth bearing in mind that the probabilities are all against her having made any such remarks. Mrs. Green lacks facility in conversation, a circumstance due, in all likelihood, to her innate objection to all forms of waste. If she could make money by talking, it would be different. The reportorial impulse then would be to stem the tide, rather than be on the alert for an occasional dribble.

This time Mrs. Green is credited with having predicted a revolution aimed at the iniquity of the trusts. This is to be no figurative uprising, but one that will cause the streets to run with blood. Somehow, this does not sound like Mrs. Green. If she had rebuked a bank president for riding in a cab, or a clerk for eating a decent meal, or some woman for wearing a dress acceptable to the eye, there would have been a distinct Green color about it.

Mrs. Green is the richest woman in the country. She has the reputation, deserved or not, of being one of the meanest. She is an example of the type of miserliness for which Russell Sage stood for many years. Her dealings are on a large scale, and they are for the most part directly with the capitalists who are banded in trusts. Any general movement to overthrow the trusts would carry down the Green fortunes if in any measure successful, and to the gore that is to run in the gutters Mrs. Green would be logically bound to contribute a moiety. Truth compels the admission that she is not supposed to be the possessor of much of this fluid.

If Mrs. Green predicted a revolution due to the oppression of the trusts, the chances are that in one of her many deals she had met a trust, and for once failed to derive a profit from the contact. It even is possible that the trust went its way chuckling over having treated her to a loss. Such an experience would be enough to cause Mrs. Green not only to see a revolution, but to be one.

COL. PIKE'S DIARY

For One Hundred Years Ago Today

Sunday, 2d November.—Marched at ten o'clock. At one came up to the third fork on the south side, and encamped at night on the point of the Grand Forks. As the river appeared to be dividing itself into several small branches, and of course must be near its extreme source, I concluded to put my party in defensible situation, and ascend the north fork to the high point of the Blue Mountain, which we conceived would be one day's march; in order to be enabled from its summit, to lay down the various branches of the river, and the positions of the country. Distance advanced, nineteen miles. Killed five buffaloes.

Colorado Comment

VANDALISM.

From the Glenwood Avalanche.

It seems strange that vandalism should be so predominant in America. [illegible] "Don't Handle" are so common [illegible] they excite no comment, yet in Europe they appear only where Americans are frequent [illegible] are great sufferers from souvenir hunters and an inconsiderable portion of high hotel rates is due to the necessity of providing for spoons, etc., taken as souvenirs. If these articles were taken from private homes, we would call it stealing. As it is, we simply call it a fad.

BETTER ROADS NEEDED.

From the Fowler Tribune.

There may be some things we don't need in this prosperous part of Colorado, but all agree that we do need better roadbeds. The heavy hauling cuts the roads in the fall of the year until hauling becomes heavier and renders them more uncomfortable to travel over in any kind of vehicle. The good roads movement which advocates solid road building is a live subject at the present time. Better build a certain number of miles of substantial road each year until the principal highways are finished, rather than spend money every year for temporary work. The best is the cheapest.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

From the Florence Daily Tribune.

Young men, let us give you the benefit of our observation. We have noticed that at least nine-tenths of the young men who have been before the court of misdemeanors are those who take no interest whatever in education seldom read a newspaper, and are always ready to make fun of other young men who use correct language and try to be somebody. It comes natural to them to discourage the studious and ambitious young men of their acquaintance. Their minds run toward dirty stories, midnight sprees and bad company. This in a short time means trouble, a sheriff's invitation to attend court, and a fine or term in jail.

THE SPIRIT THAT WINS.

From the Lake City Times.

However we may feel and however we may disagree in social matters, in church matters, in lodge matters and in all questions of local preference and position, there should be a united and concerted effort, without a single contrary or discordant voice: To direct the interest of the mining public to the mineral possibilities of Hinsdale county; to pull for Lake City; to improve our roads; to talk a railroad up Henson creek and to Burrows Park; to boost, boost, for ourselves. That's the spirit that gets there in all ages and climes. If we want to ride we must climb onto the band wagon and toot our own horn. The Bible tells us to do it, and experience goes to show that those old biblical writers were pretty keen judges of human nature under all sorts of conditions. Yet not he that toots the loudest but he that toots the truest will be heard the farthest. The main thing is to toot the truth and to toot it morning, noon and night, and you are bound to get public attention; especially if you prove the truth of the truth you are tooting about.

FIRE DEMON AT LARGE.

From the Greensburg (La.) Echo.

At an early hour last Monday morning the court house bell began to ring and our people began suddenly to get a move on themselves, as it was certain that it meant a fire alarm. We had just left the house and started down to the office, and we managed to work ourself up into a sort of a turkey-trot, which we kept up for a distance of full twenty yards, when we petered out and resumed the same old waddle. We could see the crowd moving in the direction of the Peterman residence, now occupied by Mr. Luther McKinney, and it turned out that the roof of his kitchen was on fire but that same had been extinguished before much help had arrived and before much damage was done.

WHAT THE PRESS THINKS OF

"THE LION AND THE MOUSE" AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Everyone who is keenly alive to the machination of trusts and kings of finance can not but appreciate "The Lion and the Mouse," which production is announced for the Opera house this evening.

The play is by Charles Klein and makes a distinct innovation in the development of the American drama, for Mr. Klein has utilized a phase of national life which has never been used for stage purposes, and which as a result proves of intense interest. He has taken one of the money kings of the country, the type of a financier who manipulates the destinies of the nation, and made him one of the central figures of his plot, stern in his attitude to all, even to his wife and children, and [illegible] vital element is a young and beautiful daughter of a supreme court judge, who is being driven to the wall with impeachment and disgrace as the result of his righteous decisions, which are adverse to the interests of this money king. To save the honor of her father and his life, the daughter enlists her services against this financial giant, and the plot reveals the struggles of two keen brains for the mastery.

The play is one of exceptional interest and dramatic force, and while it is serious in aspect, it contains a fine galaxy of wit, humor and pathos.

"THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH."

One of the most humorous situations in "The Heir to the Hoorah," which comes to the Opera house next Monday evening, is comprised in a long drawn practical joke, put up on Bud Young by Joe and Dave Lacy. The practical joke takes the form of a certain maiden aunt, concerning whom, in connection with Mr. Young's matrimonial future they converse with such frequency that poor Bud comes to a state of mind wherein, as he puts it, every time he has a nightmare the "maiden aunt" is "it." The fun comes when the maiden aunt in question turns out to be a remarkably pretty girl named Madge Casey, just graduated from Vassar.

Bud sees her and learns her name. "Say, Madge sounds pretty good to me," he drawls, and upon being presented to Miss Casey, cheerfully observes: "Say, you've got the rest of them beat the length of the Santa Fe trail."

Seats are now on sale for the engagement of "The Heir to the Hoorah."

"CHECKERS."

"Checkers," the tale of love and luck, is to be seen at the Opera house next Tuesday evening. It is fresh from its fourteenth unquestioned triumph in Greater New York. The production which has scored a big success wherever seen, is still under the personal supervision of the same manager who has directed its destinies since its initial performance. The title role this season is to be enacted by Hans Roberts, the young actor of whom a metropolitan daily has been pleased to say: "He is the manifest possessor of a talent and personality which warrant the seemingly extravagant prediction that he is destined to be known as comedy as Edwin Booth was in tragedy, this country's greatest actor."

There is need to say but little of the story of "Checkers." The tremendous circulation of the book since its publication ten years ago seems reason for the belief that the details of the [illegible] charming and thrilling tale must be known to every lover of the cold, old story, when dressed in language new, as well as to every lover of the sport of kings and the intense excitement of the ring.

EZRA KENDALL COMING.

Ezra Kendall, who is to appear here in his new comedy next Friday evening at the Opera house, entitled "Sweet Elegant Jones," has written a new play which he has called "If I Were You," and in which he will star next season. The scenes of the comedy are laid in Kansas. The character which Mr. Kendall will portray is that of a country printer and publisher, poor in resources, but rich in philosophy, and his particular hobby is personally interesting himself in the affairs of his every subscriber, for whom he decides all questions, whether of great or small importance.

WHERE ARE HOLDUPS? DR. SOLLY'S FUNERAL

ARE CERTAINLY ADEPTS AT DISAPPEARING.

Local Officers Can't Find Them, and Cripple Creek Posse Has Not Done So.

No arrest of the desperadoes who are reported to have held up J. S. Cathells and other parties at Divide has been made, and so far as the officers are concerned the affair remains wrapped in mystery. Detectives Shultz and Rowan of this city, who were out with the posse from Cripple Creek, returned yesterday after a fruitless search, and reported no trace of the holdups.

Doubt is expressed by the local officials as to some of the statements regarding the affair. Sheriff Grimes has received no report of the posse from Cripple Creek or the detectives from this city as to the results of their search.

It was supposed that the robbers had taken to the hills and Sheriff Grimes was asked to notify his men at Monument, Palmer Lake and other points, to be on the watch for them, as it was expected that they might come out by some of those routes and attempt to get away by train. Nothing has been seen of the men at any of the points notified, and their trail through the hills has never been found. The officers have little to say about the matter, but it is not denied that search for the perpetrators of the alleged holdup has ceased.

"I never did get excited over the matter," said Sheriff Grimes yesterday. "The posse from Cripple Creek was on the spot not long after the alleged holdup, and could easily have traced the robbers by their tracks in the snow. The posse came down here and took out with them some of the detectives of this city. They never came to my offices and I have not been advised of the result of their search. I am not criticising their actions in any way, or saying that they have been remiss in their duty."

Detective Shultz stated last night that the posse from Cripple Creek, which had been looking for the robbers, had never been able to find a trace of the men in the snow, and the story that they were being trailed was a fabrication. Undersheriff Dittemore, of Cripple Creek, who knows the country thoroughly, had from the start declared that the desperadoes could only escape by certain routes, and would be found at one of two or three places where he knew cabins were situated. No track of the men had been found on any of the trails, and the posse has given up the pursuit through sheer lack of the slightest clue to show that there ever had been three fugitives.

RAILRUAD TO CRYSTAL PARK

Project Depends on Manitou Granting Franchise.—Eastern Capitalists May Invest.

A scenic railroad from Manitou to Crystal park, changing the park into one of the most beautiful summer resorts in Colorado, is the project which a syndicate of eastern capitalists have under way and in which they will spend $250,000 if the Manitou trustees will grant a franchise to the company. That the Manitou trustees will do so is practically assured, according to W. C. Dotterer, a New Yorker from Wall Street, who is now in this city. Associated with him is Wesley Campion of Seattle, Wash., who, with Mr. Dotterer, is here to petition the board of trustees of Manitou at their first meeting, December 4, for an electric railroad franchise between Manitou and Crystal park.

"Yes, we are after a franchise between Manitou and Crystal park," said Mr. Dotterer at the Antlers last night, "and we propose, if the franchise is granted, and I have every assurance that it will be, to build up Crystal park so that it will be a most attractive resort for pleasure seekers. But I want it thoroughly understood that it is purely a local affair, the terminals being at Manitou and Crystal park. We have no intention of running the line to Cripple Creek, as has been reported. We have never thought of doing that, nor is it at all probable that such an extension will be made in the future."

According to the engineers now making the preliminary survey, it is proposed to have a five-mile electric road traversing the territory in the vicinity of the lime kilns near Manitou, the grade of which will be between 5 and 6 per cent. It is probable that the new line will take its power from the Pike's Peak Hydro-Electric company.

WILL BUILD NEW CHURCH

Christian Scientists to Erect House of Worship at Boulder Street and Cascade Avenue.

Work on the $8,000 building will be begun early next month by the congregation of the First Church of Christ, Scientist. The building, which is to be used temporarily as a house of worship, will be erected on the lots owned by the Christian Scientists on the southeastern corner of Boulder street and Cascade avenue. The building will probably be built in the mission style, and will be constructed of brick. Douglas & Hetherington, architects, have charge of the plans for the structure.

A meeting of the congregation was held Wednesday evening and the plans of the board of trustees for the new building were approved. The present plans are to erect a building with a seating capacity of about 350. The church owns five lots, 125 by 150 feet, on the southeastern corner of Boulder and Cascade avenue. The new building is to be erected on the lots at the eastern side of the property, and will face north. This will leave a plot of ground, 125x125 feet on the corner as a site for a church building, which the congregation hopes to erect when it becomes larger. A meeting of the board of trustees will be held next week.

EDITRESS HARRIS AT LIBERTY

Habeas Corpus Petition Sustained by Judge Cunningham.—Asks for Change of Venue.

Miss Lisle Harris, editor of the Manitou Journal, who has been in custody on account of her refusal to give bond in the case of criminal libel brought against her in connection with the litigation over the Manitou Bathing company, has been given her liberty as the result of habeas corpus proceedings, brought before Judge L. W. Cunningham, yesterday, by Attorney J. F. Sanford.

In the petition for the writ the attorney set forth several alleged irregularities regarding the proceedings of its issuance by Justice of the Peace Francisco at Manitou. The trial of the original charge, which is that of criminal libel, will be held in Justice Francisco's court, but Attorney Sanford has asked for a change of venue, and the case will probably be tried in this city.

MARKET POSSIBILITIES ABOUT EXHAUSTED.

Stocks of Comparatively Small Capital Figure in Transactions. Bonds Are Irregular.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The bad repute of some stocks with the speculative element has to do with causes quite aside from the financial standing of charcter of the companies themselves. Stocks of comparatively small capital or which are closely held in a few hands, and are seldom active in the stock market, are not favorite mediums of speculation in times of ordinary activity. Their sudden emergence into prominence, either by large transactions or violent fluctuations, is usually accepted as a sign that market possibilities have been about exhausted in the more popular stocks, and that only the course of elimination by exhaustion has brought the speculation around to this class. This feeling was accentuated by the publication, at last, of the terms for participation of Great Northern stockholders in the benefits of the ore lands contract. The valuable nature of these benefits was beyond dispute. But this transaction has served so long as the mainspring of one speculative movement after another, while held in the confines of vague conjecture, that doubts are felt as to what can take its place with equal effect, now that it is definitely outlined and therefore placed without the realm of speculation. This impression on sentiment was clearly manifested in the movement in the Great Northern preferred itself, which started downwards from the outset. Northern Pacific moved in sympathy. The feverish fluctuations in St. Paul also kept sentiment constantly shifting. The most substantial example of strength in the market from the speculative standpoint was Union Pacific, which moved aggressively away from St. Paul, after having been pressed unmercifully by the 7 per cent payer earlier in the week.

Revived discussion of a southern iron merger was reflected in that group of which Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke was the conspicuous figure, with a buoyant rise at one time of 13½ over last night. The coalers also made sensational jumps, apparently on the drawing of an analogy between the Great Northern distribution and what might result from a separation of coal mines and lands from railway company ownership. A great many low-priced industrials were concerned in the movement at one time or another.

The course of the call money market showed that the factors of relaxation were not as rapidly effective as was indicated by the later course of yesterday's market. There was no rise to 10 per cent as in the earlier dealings yesterday, but the ruling rate was maintained about 7 per cent until late in the day. The increase in gold holdings by the Bank of England was a satisfactory development, and the decline in gold holdings of the Bank of France by its relinquishment to the London market was offset by a scaling off of credits.

Domestic developments were less satisfactory.

New York exchange at Chicago fell back to a small discount after having ruled at 20 cents premium when the week opened. Another half million dollars also was transferred to San Francisco through the subtreasury. The late money market continued strong and very little was offered. The rate was 7 per cent bid up to 3 months, and 6 per cent bid and 6½ offered for 6 months. There was a marked decline in speculative confidence with the progress of the day and decided reaction in prices from the high level. Net losses were as conspicuous as gains at the end of the day and the closing was weak.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,104,000.

U. S. 2s registered advanced ¼ per cent on call.

BRIEF FIRMNESS EARLY IN THE DAY.

Feature of Trading in Corn Is Profit Taking in December Delivery. Provisions Weak.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Weakness in the whole market developed after trading was well under way. During the first hour sentiment was bullish because of continued small receipts in the northwest. The early firmness was partly due, however, to an absence of selling pressure. Later, a decline of 1½c in the price of December wheat at Minneapolis increased the selling here and caused a still weaker feeling. The local market was depressed also by the fear of liberal deliveries on December contracts. During the last hour, both longs and cash houses were free sellers of December. The market closed weak. December opened unchanged to a shade lower at 73½@⅝, sold to 73⅝, and then declined to 73¼@⅜.

The measure of trading in corn was profit taking in the December delivery which resulted in a small loss in that option. Other deliveries however were steady because of unsettled weather in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. December opened unchanged to a shade lower at 42¼ to 42¼@⅜, sold between 42⅛@⅜ and closed at the lowest point. Local receipts were 96 cars with eight per cent of contract grade.

Trading in oats was quiet and with the exception of a slight decline in the December delivery the market was steady. December opened unchanged at 33⅜, sold between 33⅜@½ and 33⅜, and closed at 33⅜@½.

Provisions were firm at the opening. Later the market became weak on selling caused by a reported large increase in the local stocks of pork and lard. At the close, January pork was off 20c at $14.67½. Lard was down 12½c at $8.45. Ribs were 10@12½c lower at $7.12½.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—The Forest Queen mine on Ironclad hill, now the subject for litigation in the supreme court of the state between the heirs of the late W. The property under lease to Roach and associates of Chicago, under the superintendency of Oscar Fogleman, is shipping at the rate of a car a day. Within the present month a new ore shoot has been opened at the bottom level and shipments will be materially increased as soon as the new ore house now under construction is completed.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—Returns received last week from shipments made by the Peggy Leasing company from its leases on the Colorado Boss and Peggy claims in Gold hill, show the following values for coarse rock and screenings: On two cars of coarse quartz, one from each property, a gold content of two and three-quarters ounces and two and a half ounces in gold to the ton were shown. A car of screenings from the Peggy gave results of one and one-half ounces gold to the ton.

A somewhat unusual feature of this ore is the higher values found in the coarse rock rather than in the screenings. Both properties are operated through the Peggy shaft at a depth of 300 feet from the surface.

NEW ELECTRIC COMPRESSOR

Beacon Hill Ajax Will Supply Its Own Air.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—One car a day is leaving the Beacon Hill Ajax, under lease to local mining men, and it is estimated that as soon as the new electric compressor, now under installation, is in commission, the output will be increased to not less than two cars daily. The leasing company has heretofore been supplied with air by the El Paso company, but the severe weather has repeatedly frozen the air pipe line, which lies exposed for a distance of approximately 2,000 feet.

ANOTHER great remnant sale today only. You who have attended previous remnant sales at the Giddings store know well what this means. From the time our doors open in the morning until 6 o'clock at night this department is crowded with eager buyers. Today's sale will eclipse all.

There are hundreds, yes, thousands, of dollars' worth of short lengths that accumulated since our last sale, which was months ago. Included in the lot are dress goods, silks, muslins, ginghams, outing flannel, waistings, percales, flannels, etc., etc.

They were marked originally at reduced prices, but today you may choose from the lot at just one-half the marked price.

Waists left from manufacturers' sale now one-half price

DO YOU remember what a beautiful lot these manufacturers' samples were? Those exquisite lace effects, fine silks, dainty linen and lingerie waists. There's a good assortment here for your selection. They'll not last long at half price. Better shop early, and get the cream of these great values.

The regular prices are from $2 to $40. Today and Saturday they are just half price.
